

Be Well

10 Simple Steps To Be The Best You!

Deanna Snyder, RN

Integrative Nutrition Health Coach

Gut Health Certified

dōTERRA Wellness Advocate

ARōMATOUCH & Reiki I & II Certified

ds

DeannaSnyder.com

Table of Contents

Greetings	3
Welcome	4
Are You Ready?	5
Healthy Habits.....	6
Why Restrictive Diets Don't Work	7
Get Enough Sleep	9
Reduce Stress	10
Eat Every Meal	12
Trade Out Your Beverage	14
Eat Carbs That Fuel Your Body	16
Choose Healthy Fats	17
Focus On Lean Protein	19
Get Moving	21
Prepare More Meals At Home	24
Keep Track	25
The Dirty Dozen	28
The Clean Fifteen	29
Start Today!	30
Let's Stay In Touch	31

Greetings!

It's a pleasure to meet you!

For over thirty-five years, I've had the honor of serving the Orlando community in various capacities. My experience includes working closely with patients and families as a critical care registered nurse, advocating for women's health through events and memberships, and currently assisting individuals in finding natural solutions for their overall wellness.

I truly believe that the body possesses a remarkable ability to heal itself when given the right support. As a critical care nurse, an Integrative Nutrition Health Coach, and a dōTERRA Wellness Advocate, I am excited to blend my knowledge and passions to help you achieve your best self!

Here are a few tips to kickstart your wellness journey. I would be delighted to accompany you as you embark on this path!

Be Well,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Deanna". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal stroke extending to the right.

DeannaSnyder.com

Welcome

Thank you for downloading this guide!

Starting to implement healthier habits doesn't have to be complicated or daunting. I'd like to share insights from my personal journey, as well as knowledge gained through education, experience, and mentorship in health, fitness, and nutrition.

In this e-book, you'll find several key tips to assist you on your path to adopting healthier habits. It's crucial to recognize that meaningful change doesn't occur overnight, even though we often wish it would! True transformation happens when we decide that we no longer want to settle for how we feel or look, and we are genuinely prepared to make a lifestyle change (no extreme diets, pills, potions, or "quick fixes"). Ultimately, you must DECIDE—not just half-heartedly, but wholeheartedly—that you will begin today and prioritize your journey.

Make the choice to leave your comfort zone behind, and embrace the opportunity to rediscover your old self—or perhaps even discover a NEW you! I would love to hear from you!

I invite you to visit my Facebook or Instagram pages with any questions, comments, or to share your progress.

Are You Ready to Live Your Best Life?

Good!

Let's get started!

Healthy Habits

You probably know by now that there are no quick fixes when it comes to losing weight for the long term while also supporting your health.

The most effective way to lose weight and keep it off is to focus on adding in healthy habits. A healthy lifestyle is not about being on a 'diet', it's about learning how to nourish your body so you can thrive – not feel deprived.

It's easy to get overwhelmed, impatient and want results NOW, but by making small changes you can live with for the rest of your life, the better your chances are for success. This is also the best way to get off of the diet roller coaster for good.

Why Restrictive Diets Don't Work!

According to Dr. Oz, "The problem with severely restricting diets is that they jolt your body into starvation mode, preventing your body from burning unwanted fat and storing more fat and calories for you to survive on. When the body can no longer get its calories from food it looks to get some of its calories from lean muscle. This results in muscle loss. Less muscle means a slower metabolic rate causing stalled weight loss or even worse - weight gain."

It can be confusing to know where to begin, so I'm sharing 10 simple but effective strategies you can incorporate to help you on the road to living a healthier, happier and more balanced life.

Start with 1 or 2 habits at a time then build on those successes by adding 1 or 2 more. Slow and steady really is the way to go so that you incorporate these habits as part of your lifestyle.

You can start with the simplest habit first and go from there if you like. Don't get overwhelmed – just start with ONE thing. Write it down somewhere as a reminder.

Grab your smart phone, iPad, tablet or pad of paper as we get started. By the way, a great, free smartphone app for tracking your habits is called “Good Habits”. You can enter up to 3 habits and set it up so that you get a daily reminder. Awesome!

Check off the first 1-2 habits you want to start with this week. Imagine if you were to incorporate even 1 new habit each month for a year – amazing things would happen!

#1. Get Enough Sleep

This may seem like a strange place to start, but it's so important that I'm putting it on the top of the list. Why? Let's face it, when we're tired we tend to make fewer healthy choices throughout the day and reach for the quick-fix energy boost we need, often in the form of sugar-filled options and processed snacks.

Lack of sleep disrupts circadian rhythms and can lead to inefficient body regulation of energy balance, metabolism and appetite. Abnormal leptin and ghrelin levels – hormones that tell your body it's full – can go awry when your body isn't fully rested.

To get more sleep, set a goal of what time you need to be in bed each night to get the 7-9 hours you need. Try it this week and see what difference you notice, both in how you feel and your appetite. Fill in the blank: I'm committing to getting _____ hours of sleep each night this week.

Invest in the dōTERRA's Serenity® | Restful Blend Sleep System. This trio of products will support a restful night's sleep!

#2. Reduce Stress

I realize this is not always an easy thing to do. Most of us are juggling way too much and going through the day at warp speed, trying to get more and more done. By having a high stress level, not only is it harmful to your health, it's harmful to your waistline as well.

When you are constantly under stress, hormone levels, like cortisol and insulin are elevated. The elevation of these 2 hormones can sabotage your weight loss efforts and actually cause weight gain.

'Feeling stressed can create a wide variety of physiological changes, such as impairing digestion, excretion of valuable nutrients, decreasing beneficial gut flora populations, decreasing your metabolism, and raising triglycerides, cholesterol, insulin, and cortisol levels.' – Mercola.com

So, while you may think you can “handle it” as far as your stress level goes, we aren't meant to be under constant stress and it takes its toll. If you are doing everything right as far as diet and exercise but you're under stress everyday, you're not going to see or feel the results you want.

What are some ways you can reduce your stress level?

Is there something you can start with this week or this month?

Schedule a massage, take 10 minutes to be outside and do something you love!

dōTERRA's Adaptiv™ System is a toolbox to help the body and mind stay balanced during life's stressful moments.

#3. Eat Every Meal

It's common for people to think that when they skip a meal, they are 'saving' calories. What happens though is it backfires and by mid afternoon or early evening, they're starving. Then they feel like they have no 'will power'. Our body needs fuel in the form of food to function, so when it's deprived, it screams out for what it needs – food! Willpower is no match and then they end up feeling guilty. Skipping meals sets you up for failure and feeling guilty.

Eat three meals a day and healthy snacks when needed. You'll notice you get through the day with more energy and when you plan your meals out during the day, you can make healthier choices. It's much easier to make unhealthy choices when you need to eat something now and you just grab the closest thing you can find.

Plan ahead and be sure to not skip meals and you're sure to notice a difference in how you feel and will usually end up eating fewer calories during the day.

Cook once and have healthy leftovers! I love batch cooking. We make large portions on Sunday of rice, quinoa, beans, roast veggies and place in Mason Jars while they are hot. They self-seal and lasts longer in the refrigerator.

Keep healthy snacks in the house to avoid temptation when you get the "hangryps!"

Cooking is fun when you add dōTERRA's essential oils to your favorite recipes.

#4. Trade Out Your Beverage!

A really easy way to improve your health and lose weight is to trade out your soda (regular or diet), flavored coffee drinks or other calorie or artificially sweetened beverage.

For most of us, it's just a habit we've formed. What is the trigger for you? Is it going by the cafeteria, fast food drive-thru or the stash in your fridge or pantry maybe?

Studies show that even diet soda increases our appetite. So, while the drink itself may be zero calories, you end up eating more food to go along with it.

If you're addicted to the caffeine, you may want to start out cutting your consumption in $\frac{1}{2}$ for a week or so and see how you do.

Decide what you can drink instead. You can try unsweetened iced tea, water with fresh fruit or unflavored carbonated water with a splash of fruit juice if you just need some fizz in your drink.

By trading out your sugar or chemical-filled beverage for water you're giving your body what it needs – proper hydration.

Add one drop of dōTERRA's Lemon, Lime, Grapefruit, Ginger, Basil or another favorite essential oil to your glass of water.

Caution: Place essential oils in a glass, stainless steel or ceramic container. NEVER in plastic as it will breakdown the petroleum.

#5. Eat Carbs That Fuel Your Body

Our body needs carbs, but just the right kind. Refined carbohydrates like white bread, pasta, cereal and processed snacks are lacking in nutrients and leave us hungry again a short time later. Complex carbohydrates from foods like fruits, vegetables, whole grains, nuts, seeds and legumes contain fiber and nutrients that fuel us and help us feel full longer.

If you can find it in nature (as opposed to a package with a long list of ingredients), it's a pretty safe bet it's a good choice.

A good rule of thumb is...if the advertising on the box claims to be healthy, it is probably not!

#6. Choose Healthy Fats

FACT: Our body needs fat in order to function optimally.

The body utilizes dietary fat for energy, healthy hair, skin and nails, vitamin absorption and normal, everyday bodily functions.

"Good fats promote several health benefits such as protection against heart disease, cancer, Alzheimer's, and depression, as well as reduced blood pressure and lower cholesterol. Choose sources such as nuts, seeds, fish, avocados and extra virgin olive oil." – Institute for Integrative Nutrition.

Another good source of healthy fat is coconut oil, which can be used for cooking and baking and it's also great in smoothies.

The low fat diet craze caused most Americans to fear all sources of dietary fat, even the ones that we need to thrive. During this time, fat was replaced with sugar and other additives to give foods the flavor and consistency they needed. Unfortunately, this period of time was also when the rates of obesity, diabetes and heart disease skyrocketed in this country.

A little goes a long way, so don't over do it. Just include a little fat at each meal to help you stay satiated longer.

Food that is labeled as "Fat-Free" are loaded with extra sugar.

#7. Focus On Lean Protein

Consuming enough protein is another way to improve your energy and stay satiated longer after your meal.

Our bodies require protein for cell renewal, stabilizing our blood sugar, and providing us the energy we need. Many foods contain protein, but some of the best sources include: fish, dairy, meat and eggs, as well as plant sources like seeds, nut and beans.

Be aware of your protein consumption and observe how you feel when you have more vs. when you have less to determine what works best for you. Also, be aware that quality matters – grass-fed beef and free-range chicken are healthier protein sources than feed-lot meats. Choose organic when possible for foods like dairy, eggs, peanut butter and soy products.

Look for grass fed-grass finished, pastured raise, no hormones or antibiotics given when buying animal protein.

Let
food be thy medicine
and medicine
be thy food.

-Hippocrates

#8. Get Moving

Exercise actually gives us energy! Think about how you feel after sitting around for hours, versus how you feel when you're up moving around. You just feel better when you're active.

You don't have to spend countless hours at the gym to reap significant benefits from exercise.

You can start with something simple like a 20-minute walk if you're just getting back to an exercise routine. Look at ways you can add more activity into your day – a short walk during lunch, another walk after work perhaps. Maybe two 10-minute walks each day would work better for you, than one 20-minute walk.

Having an activity tracker like a Fitbit or pedometer is a great way to see how active you are and get an idea of how many calories you burn during the day. It's fun and motivating to see how many steps you take in a day.

Find a friend or coworker that has similar goals and figure out something you can do together to help keep each other accountable.

Do you prefer to workout at home? Great! There are endless options of workouts to choose from for every fitness level. Options include exercise DVD's, online workouts, fitness apps and more. Let me know if you need suggestions.

Join a gym. The gym is nice because your routine is not affected by the weather. If you can invest in a personal trainer to get you started, that can be helpful to boost your confidence and knowledge in how to use the machines as well as making sure you're using proper form.

If you have taken a long break from exercising, don't set yourself up for disappointment – have realistic expectations and be okay with feeling like a beginner again. It's okay – just start where you are right now and build on it.

Note: Always check with your doctor before starting a new exercise program.

Apply Deep Blue® Oil and Deep Blue® Rub to affected areas for a soothing massage after a long day or intense workout.

#9. Prepare More Meals At Home!

Cooking meals at home allows you to control the quality, calories and portion sizes, of your food. Do you notice how much food you're served when you go to a restaurant? Crazy! When we have more food in front of us, we'll eat more without realizing it.

Bonus: preparing meals at home saves money too. Plan your week out in advance and see which nights you can cook at home. The crockpot becomes my best friend on busy days. I look at my calendar for the week ahead and whichever days are hectic, those are crockpot nights – easy breezy!

Invest in a thermos, stainless containers and insulated tote to bring your home cooking with you while you are out.

#10. Keep Track!

Keeping track of what you eat can be pretty easy thanks to all the handy apps we have available at our fingertips.

My favorite food tracking apps are MyFitnessPal and Loselt. You'll be surprised what you discover when you start tracking. Just remember, quality counts and it's not just about the number of calories. 100 calories of cookies is not the same as 100 calories of veggies as far as nutrients and fueling your body is concerned.

For tracking, you also want to track the nutrients (or lack of nutrients) in foods. Reading the nutrition label is key. We have grown so accustomed to focus on the calories listed on the food label, but not the ingredients.

Look for foods that have the shortest list of ingredients and those that you recognize. If it's a long list of ingredients with words that are difficult to pronounce or you don't know what they are, put it back on the shelf and look for something else.

I like the Fooducate app, which allows you to scan the barcode on food packages and see what grade the food scores along with the reason for the grade. Very helpful!

"The key to making healthy decisions is to respect your future self.

Honor him or her. Treat him or her like you would treat a friend or a loved one."

– A.J. Jacobs

The Dirty Dozen

(and then some)

You don't have to buy all organic all the time. Here is a list of produce that contains the most chemicals and buying organic will reduce your risk for chemical contamination.

Apples

Celery

Cherry Tomatoes

Cucumbers

Hot Peppers

Imported

Nectarines

Peaches

Potatoes

Spinach

Strawberries

Sweet Bell Peppers

Kale/Collard

Greens

Summer Squash

The Clean Fifteen

Here is a list of produce that contains the least amount of chemical contamination. You can purchase these items by conventional growing methods.

Asparagus

Avocados

Cabbage

Cantaloupe

Sweet Corn

Eggplant

Grapefruit

Kiwi

Mangos

Mushrooms

Onions

Papaya

Pineapples

Sweet Peas

(Frozen)

Sweet Potatoes

Start Today!

Choose one or two healthy habits to begin implementing today.

You can start with the simplest option if you prefer.

When you shift your decision-making process to ask, “Does this nourish my body’s true needs?” instead of “What’s the quickest option available?” and consider, “Will this bring me closer to my goals or take me further away?” regularly, your choices will change, behaviors will adapt, and you will experience a greater sense of well-being.

The most rewarding part is that as you embark on this journey toward a healthier lifestyle—one that will last a lifetime—you will lose weight without feeling deprived.

Instead, it will feel like embracing the new version of YOU!

LET'S STAY IN TOUCH!

It's been a pleasure sharing my passion with you. I invite you to consider your current health and wellness. I have two questions for you to ponder...

What do you want to feel LESS of?

What do you want to feel MORE of?

I would be honored to discuss your health goals and concerns and to support you on your journey toward lifelong vitality.

Be well,

Deanna Snyder, RN

Integrative Nutrition Health Coach

Gut Health Certified

dōTERRA Wellness Advocate ID 473794

Reiki & ARōMATOUCH Certified

DeannaSnyder.com

*These statements have not been evaluated by the Food and Drug Administration. Not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease.

ds

DeannaSnyder.com

© 2025 Deanna Snyder, RN